JAPANESE FLEET
HERE ON WAY TO HELP ASAMA

Hastening to the assistance of the Asama, which for some weeks has been ashore off the Mexican coast, the Japanese cruiser Tokiwa is today off the harbor. It is accompanied by the cruiser Chitose, which, however, stayed out at a distance from the port. Commander N. Sakamoto lost no time in coming ashore this morning. He immediately repaired to the Japanese consulate where cables and mail awaited him regarding the further movement of the Japanese vessels. The Tokiwa left Yokosuka 15 days ago. Hundreds of Japanese gathered at the waterfront to visit the cruiser from long range. Federal officials visited the Tokiwa and granted it a sister ship to the Asama. It carries eight 8-inch guns, an auxiliary battery of 14 6-inch guns, 12 12-pounders and seven 2-pounders.

The vessel displayed one torpedo tube above water. It has four submerged tubes. A quantity of towing and wrecking gear and tackle is carried in the cruiser. The Tokiwa and Chitose are prepared to carry salvage operations to a successful completion. The cruiser is provided with two screws. It is driven by two sets of four triple expansion engines. For pulling it has few equals in the Japanese navy.

The cruiser was built at Elswick, England. According to the Japanese officers the Tokiwa is rated as a very handy ship in shallow water.

Owing to rough weather the vessel was delayed in steaming across the Pacific. The vessel, it is said, can make 23 knots under favorable conditions.

The stay of the cruiser will be brief. Residents of upper Manoa valley today reported seeing two or three steamers a number of miles off the island. They are believed to be Japanese colliers accompanying the fleet of cruisers on route to the Mexican coast and now in these waters.

Officers in the Tokiwa said that two cruisers had followed that vessel from Japanese naval bases. It is expected that a half dozen vessels will take lines from the distressed Asama.

It was reported this morning that Admiral Zaihu is aboard, commanding the fleet.

Late despatches from the coast indicate that the Asama is being successfully floated.

Kukui Crew Soon to Return.

The return of officers and men belonging to the United States lightship tender Kukui is expected with the arrival of the steamer Columbine, which, during the absence of the Kukui, has been assigned to Hawaiian waters.

Captain Frank Warriner, master of the vessel, is spending some weeks on the Oregon coast on vacation. The Kukui is undergoing overhauling and repairs at San Francisco.

About April 1 the Kukui will exchange officers and crews with the exception of the wireless men with the tender Columbine, the Columbine going to the Hawaiian Islands station, while the Kukui will proceed to Alaska. The principal reason for making this change is that the Kukui is the better equipped craft for service in the northern waters. She is similar to the Manzanita and, like that vessel, has a bow built for ice-breaking.

Makura Expected Late Today.

The steamer Makura, N. S. W., the Canadian-Australian liner Makura is expected off port about 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Makura left Australia with several hundred tons of freight for delivery at Honolulu. It is understood that a quantity of refrigerated meat and provisions will be left behind. At the agency of T. H. Davies & Co. a score of cabin passengers to Vancouver and Victoria have been booked. The Makura may be despatched to the British Columbian coast at a late hour tonight.

Steamer Colon is Refloated.

The steamer Colon, owned by the American-Mexican Steamship and Trading Company of San Francisco, which was stranded on the south sand spit at the entrance of Topolobampo several days ago, has been floated. The work of taking the vessel from its perilous position was performed by the British steamer Cetina and the Mexican government transport Korrigan. Full details have not been received, but it is expected that the vessel will be towed back to San Francisco and repaired.

Sierra Nearing Port.

The oceanic liner Sierra will arrive at the port from San Francisco at an early hour Monday morning. The vessel was reported 815 miles from San Francisco at 8 o'clock last night. The Sierra is bringing about 100 passengers and a large general cargo.
